Educational Psychology Courses (EDPSYCH)

Courses

EDPSYCH 2030 (200:030). Dynamics of Human Development — 3 hrs.
Students in this course will examine the social contexts of human development (0-18 years of age) and the theoretical and historical perspectives that inform our understanding of development. In particular cross-cultural lenses will be used to uncover the cultural nature of development. Implications of these perspectives for supporting the development of individuals across multiple domains (e.g., physical, cognitive, psychosocial) will be discussed. Examination of diverse viewpoints, theories, and methods of inquiry provide an avenue for students to develop skills in critical thinking and analysis and communicate their findings both orally and in writing. (Fall, Spring, Summer)

EDPSYCH 3109. Development and Assessment of Young Children — 3 hrs.
In-depth study of children's development and its assessment from birth through grade three. Emphasis on examining developmental differences among individual children and implications for developmentally and individually appropriate classroom practice. Prerequisite(s): EDPSYCH 2030 (200:030) or equivalent or consent of instructor. (Fall, Spring, Summer)

Examination of the influence of cognitive, motivational, and socio-cultural factors on students' learning in classroom contexts, with an emphasis on implications for classroom instruction and improved student achievement. EDPSYCH 6215. Advances in Educational Psychology: The Science of Learning — 3 hrs.
This course examines what current research in psychological science has to say about the learning process, individual differences, and its implications for instruction. We begin by examining the construct of talent/ability and the development of skill/expertise. Next, we examine domain-general learning strategies (e.g., retrieval practice) and how they support the learning process. Finally, we take a closer look at the development of mathematical and reading proficiency/difficulties - a detailed domain specific "snapshots" of the transition from novice to expert. A major goal of this course will be to consider how insight gained from this research can be applied to help shape our understanding and design of effective educational practices and interventions for students. (Fall or Spring)

EDPSYCH 6216. Advances in Educational Psychology: The Psychology of Literacy — 3 hrs.
This course examines what current research in psychological science has to say about the learning process, individual differences, and its implications for literacy instruction. Specifically, we take a closer look at the development of reading and writing proficiency/difficulties, how this understanding may inform approaches to literacy instruction and highlight some of the differences in perspectives that currently exist among educators. (Variable)
